HOW AN ALL IN CLIMATE STRATEGY CAN IMPROVE HEALTH AND SOCIO-ECONOMIC BENEFITS

CO-HOSTED BY CENTER FOR GLOBAL SUSTAINABILITY

Climate mitigation and action across all of society are critical to achieving both U.S. and global climate goals. However, these benefits extend beyond emissions reductions to health, social, and environmental advantages. This event will help launch America Is All In's new report, "All-In climate action for improved U.S. air quality & health benefits," and provide commentary on the importance of decarbonization for reducing pollution, improving health outcomes, and achieving a more equitable society.

GREENING AMERICA'S CITIES: OPENING EQUITABLE ACCESS TO NATURE FOR ALL

CO-HOSTED BY ICLEI USA AND BEZOS EARTH FUND

Humanity depends on nature to continue to live and thrive. Nature provides many of the necessities of life including but not limited to clean water, clean air and healthy foods—yet inequitable access to nature can prevent all people from fairly benefiting from nature's benefits. This session, will bring together leading cities that are safeguarding biodiversity while ensuring nature's services are open to all community members. Attendees will hear from community-based organizations, mayors and experts who are Greening America's Cities, with lessons for communities across the world.

ALL HANDS ON DECK: HOW THE U.S. CLIMATE ALLIANCE IS SECURING AMERICA'S NET-ZERO FUTURE WITH STATE-LED, HIGH-IMPACT ACTION

CO-HOSTED BY U.S. CLIMATE ALLIANCE

This year, we've seen it all: unprecedented firestorms and wildfire smoke, extreme heat and drought, severe wind and hail, and catastrophic flooding. No state, no community has been spared. Join top state officials from across the U.S. Climate Alliance for a discussion on how this climate action coalition is answering the call. At the event, the Alliance will also release new data on the progress its states and territories are making toward near and long-term emission reduction targets and the health, economic, and environmental benefits of this action.

FINANCING THE TRANSITION FOR IMPACT

Community banks, green banks and other U.S. banks are critical partners in the net-zero transition. Banks' existing relationships within the communities that they serve are an important tool to encourage climate ambition and banks are a necessary partner as individuals, subnational entities and private businesses seek out ways to finance their transition.

SUPERCHARGING CLIMATE CHANGE MITIGATION AND ADAPTATION - THE MINNESOTA MODEL

CO-HOSTED BY SCIENCE MUSEUM OF MINNESOTA AND FRESH ENERGY

In spring 2023, the Minnesota Legislature and Governor Walz enacted 45 new energy and climate policies. From 100% carbon-free electricity by 2040 to extreme weather resilience, Minnesota's climate action is an unprecedented surge to reduce greenhouse gasses and prepare for the climate changes already evident and those anticipated. This session will explore how this burst of policy action was achieved, how it is being implemented, and how it can inform similar surges in climate action elsewhere.

POWER TO THE YOUTH: AMPLIFYING YOUTH-DRIVEN SOLUTIONS TO ADDRESSING CLIMATE CHANGE

CO-HOSTED BY GIRL + ENVIRONMENT

In the climate movement, we spend so much time focused on the problems, the barriers, and the issue at hand, but very little time focused on the equitable solutions that can combat climate change. The remarkable efforts underway on the ground, particularly those spearheaded by youth leaders, offer invaluable lessons. In this panel session, we'll delve into the compelling narratives of global youth climate leaders. They will share their inspiring stories, detailing their endeavors to foster an equitable transition toward a green economy, increase diversity within the climate sector, and champion climate justice in their communities.

FROM COMMITMENTS TO RESULTS: HOW LEADING STATES CAN DELIVER BIG ON THE U.S. NDC

CO-HOSTED BY ENVIRONMENTAL DEFENSE FUND

Many U.S. states, long-standing climate leaders, stepped up in the absence of federal guidance to align with U.S. climate targets in the Paris Agreement. With recent shifts in federal policies, how can 25 leading states capitalize on this moment to advance climate action? This panel will highlight state progress, emphasize their pivotal role in closing the gap to the U.S. NDC, and explore the potential of binding state emissions policies to facilitate governors and policymakers in meeting climate commitments, unlocking federal investments for public health, and fostering robust clean energy economies.

ROAD TO 2030: THE ROLE OF SUBNATIONAL GOVERNMENTS AND NON-STATE ACTORS IN DELIVERING STRENGTHENED NDCS

CO-HOSTED BY THE ALLIANCES FOR CLIMATE ACTION

To realize the long-term goals of the Paris Agreement, countries need to address the well documented ambition, implementation and finance gaps and strengthen domestic ambition cycles. This requires comprehensive planning and enabling conditions at the national level, coupled with strong and collaborative partnerships with non-state actors. This side event puts the spotlight on the role of subnational governments and non-state actors to deliver strengthened NDCs that put countries on track to meet 2030 targets. like IRA, IIJA and creative solutions to finance their climate action plans.
